BOTTOM LINE

1. Executive summary

Searched and retrieved findings span federal procurement contracts (2), lobbying/OCL registrations (3 across 2006-2024), a federal grant (UBF 2021), a single party donation (2004), and one Hansard mention. Coverage is reasonable on lobbying continuity and procurement footprint. Thin or missing areas: financials and corporate structure; the Hansard mention lacks date/forum/transcript detail (low confidence); grant terms, conditions, and the full count of UBF awards are not directly in the cited records (only contextually referenced); the specific...

WHAT WE FOUND

Sustained federal government relations and lobbying program

WHY IT MATTERS

Multiple records across nearly two decades indicate an organized, ongoing federal government-relations posture. Rogers retained third-party lobbyist Fleishman-Hillard Canada in 2006 and again in early 2007 (consecutive filings), and in 2024 conducted in-house lobbying of both the Competition Bureau and ISED. This continuity suggests a...

WHAT WE FOUND

WHY IT MATTERS

Recurring federal IT/communications procurement relationships

Rogers held federal supplier contracts across distinct departments: an Info Tech Managed Services contract with the Office of the Secretary to the Governor General (2013) and an image/video communications services contract with Public Safety Canada (2017). Together these suggest a repeated pattern of federal IT/communications...

Federal broadband subsidy participation

Rogers received a $461,566 Universal Broadband Fund grant from ISED in 2021, situating it as a recipient of federal subsidy for rural/remote broadband infrastructure. A contextual record referenced in the findings indicates a substantially larger UBF award to the same entity in 2022, suggesting potential... grants:750563

Linkage to industrial/domestic supply-chain policy narrative

A Hansard mention by Mr. Paul Thompson invokes Rogers in connection with a pandemic-era domestic-production and domestic-supply theme, suggesting the company has been referenced within industrial-policy discussion. The legislative context is unclear absent date and fuller transcript. hansard_mentions:1

3. Material developments

Rogers Communications Canada Inc. lobbied the Competition Bureau and ISED via in-house registrant Susan Helstab on 2024-09-30. 2024-09-30

Concurrent lobbying of the Competition Bureau and ISED signals a live regulatory matter that could affect Rogers' competitive position, compliance obligations, or government-relations exposure. lobbying:694152

Rogers Communications received a $221,893 contract from Public Safety Canada for image/video communications services (including telepresence/video conferencing) on 2017-07-19. 2017-07-19

Rogers held a direct contractual relationship with Canada's lead public-safety ministry for secure video communications, which may be material to any assessment of its government-facing business lines.

Rogers Communications Inc. received a $110,822 Info Tech Managed Services contract from the Office of the Secretary to the Governor General, dated 2013-02-25. 2013-02-25

Rogers has demonstrated the ability to win federal IT managed-services contracts across niche, security-conscious government offices, pointing to established federal procurement credentials beyond its core commercial business. contracts:1014473

Rogers Communications Inc filed a lobbying registration via Fleishman-Hillard Canada Inc on 2007-02-07. 2007-02-07

Rogers has a documented, long-running pattern of third-party federal lobbying that extends from at least 2006 through to active in-house lobbying as recently as 2024, pointing to persistent government-relations exposure.

ocl_registrations:10195

Rogers Communications Inc filed a lobbying registration via Fleishman-Hillard Canada Inc, dated 2006-08-08. 2006-08-08

Rogers has a documented, multi-year history of structured third-party federal lobbying activity, which is relevant context for assessing the breadth of its ongoing government relations footprint. ocl_registrations:10201

Rogers Communications Canada Inc. received a $461,566 grant from Innovation, Science and Economic Development Canada under the Universal Broadband Fund, dated 2021-08-15. 2021-08-15

Rogers Group made a $750 donation to the Conservative Party of Canada (ON) on 2004-06-10. 2004-06-10

The donation is historically notable as evidence of partisan political financing activity prior to the 2006 ban, but its materiality as a standalone risk indicator is low given its age and amount. donations:45349

SO WHAT

4. Material risks & opportunities

MATERIAL RISKS

- Concurrent 2024 lobbying of both the Competition Bureau and ISED indicates active engagement on a file with both market-structure and sector-policy dimensions; given Rogers' merger history this may relate to ongoing regulatory conditions, but the specific subject is not confirmed... lobbying:694152
- Holding a federal contract with Public Safety Canada for video/communications services implies exposure to security-screening and sensitive-infrastructure requirements; the records do not detail compliance or screening status. contracts:1096439
- A 2004 corporate donation to a federal party predates Canada's 2006 ban on corporate political donations; while of limited current regulatory weight, it is noted as a historical political-contribution data point. donations:45349
- Reliance on federal broadband subsidies exposes Rogers to public-funding-allocation and program-condition risk; the records show award amounts but not associated obligations or performance terms. grants:750563

OPPORTUNITIES & ANGLES

- Established multi-department federal procurement track record (constitutional office and Public Safety Canada) may position Rogers for continued government IT/communications supplier relationships. contracts:1014473 contracts:1096439
- Participation in the Universal Broadband Fund, with a 2021 award and a referenced larger 2022 award, indicates access to federal infrastructure-subsidy programs supporting rural/remote network expansion. grants:750563
- A sustained government-relations capability across external and in-house lobbying models suggests the organizational ability to engage on telecom policy and regulatory files. ocl_registrations:10201 ocl_registrations:10195 lobbying:694152
